- A configuration is placed in the Draft state when the Save as Draft button is clicked on the Create Configuration page.

Published Configurations

- Published configurations have been finalized.
- A configuration is placed in the Draft state when the Publish button is clicked on the Create Configuration page.

- Published configurations:
  - ▶ Can be deployed.
  - ▶ Are assigned a version number.
    - The publisher and the date/time are shown.
  - ▶ A draft of a published configuration can be created to allow changes to be made.
    - When the draft is published, the version number will be incremented.
    - The publisher and the date/time will be updated.

Creating a Draft of a Published Configuration

- A draft of a published configuration can be created to allow changes to be made.
  - ▶ Click the name of a published configuration.
  - ▶ On the Configuration Details page, click Create New Draft.

The screenshot shows a web interface titled "Configurations". At the top, there are buttons for "+ Create", "Copy", "Delete", and "Set as Default". Below is a table with columns: Name, Description, Date Created, Last Modified, Last Editor, and Latest Published Version. The table lists several configurations, including "Special Setup", "Standard Configuration", "CPM no badge", "CPM", and "Customer Support". A modal window is open over the "Customer Support" row, displaying the name "Customer Support" and two buttons: "+ Create New Draft" and "Copy Configuration".

	Name	Description	Date Created	Last Modified	Last Editor	Latest Published Version
<input type="checkbox"/>	Special Setup	Non-standard setup	12/14/2023, 3:12:20 PM	12/14/2023, 3:12:20 PM	caretjim@caretoffic...

- Confirm the action by clicking Create New Draft again.

The screenshot shows a confirmation dialog box titled "Create New Draft" with a warning icon. The text inside asks: "Do you want to create new draft based on version '2' of this configuration". At the bottom right, there are two buttons: "Cancel" and "Create New Draft".

Re-Publishing a Configuration

- When the draft of a published configuration is published, the version number will be incremented.
  - The publisher and the date/time will be updated.
